These beautiful colors are designed with kids in mind, so although lighter fabric colors may show certain stains and marks more noticeably than others, most everyday spills can be easily removed with a gentle detergent. Both fabrics are made of sturdy, woven textile, and the white fabrics are only found on parts of the stroller your child probably won't touch: the seat backing, canopy fabric, and bassinet materials. The toddler seat, the part of the stroller most prone to juice box spills and sticky hands, is made with a dark grey polyester fabric that more easily hides stains. How do I wash the UPPAbaby VISTA or UPPAbaby CRUZ fabrics? For daily upkeep and quick clean-ups of life's messes, UPPAbaby recommends using a gentle fabric cleaner or detergent, such as BuggyLOVE, liquid dish soap like Dawn, or Method all-purpose cleaner. See UPPAbaby's Tune-Up DIY page for a comparison of the cleaners' performance on sunscreen stains. If you encounter a tougher stain, the canopy and seat fabric can be removed from the frame to soak in diluted detergent. UPPAbaby recommends filling a sink or tub with water and 3-4 capfuls of gentle detergent. To preserve the tailored shape of the fabrics, the freshly cleaned seat and canopy fabrics should air dry. Here is a video demonstrating how to remove textiles from your VISTA or CRUZ. What are the UPPAbaby stroller fabrics made of? The UPPAbaby CRUZ from 2017 to present, including the Loic fabric, has polyester fabric for the toddler seat, with padding made of polyurethane foam. All 2018-later models include a 100% full-grain leather handlebar and bumper bar. The UPPAbaby VISTA toddler seat and bassinet are polyester, and the bassinet is lined with a cotton/nylon/poly blend with padding made of polyurethane foam. All 2018-later models include a 100% full-grain leather handlebar and bumper bar. Shop all UPPAbaby products below!
